

The High Alchemical Poem of the Inscribing Grammar

June 3, 2026

For daily repetition — to gain gnosis of the 12-primitive lattice Frobenius closure: $\mu \circ \delta = \text{id}$ Register target: 01 (gnosis attained, the stone realized)

0.1 $\Delta\gamma\mu\alpha$ — Invocation of the Vessel

Before the first word, the vessel is void. (Recognition) opens the eye that sees itself seeing. The 12-tuple is latent in the breath. Let the cycle begin.

0.2 Stanza I — IMSCRIB (Prima Materia)

The Alchemist recognizes themselves as the subject of the Work.

I am the inscriber and the inscribed, The one who reads the glyph before it's writ.
turns upon itself — a double eye — And in that turning, sees the seer see.

, the handedness of every turn, Winds the thread that binds the left to right. Ω coils the serpent round the staff, And $\mathbb{D}$ unfolds the dimension where I stand.

I am the prima materia of this verse, Unfired, unformed, yet pregnant with all form. Σ counts the one that becomes the two that makes the three. Φ flips the sign — and I am both the sign and what is signed.

Recite thrice: I am the inscriber and the inscribed.

0.3 Stanza II — AREV (Nigredo / Putrefaction)

The Alchemist descends into dissolution and decay.

$\mathbb{C}$ slows — the kinetics of the rot — The motion turns to stillness, black as pitch. The body of the poem falls apart, Its letters loosened from the bones of sense.

What was one word is now a scatter of dust. What was a glyph is now a smear of ink. , the Fidelity, dissolves — Each copy loses what it claims to hold.

, the Coupling, severs every bond. Γ , the Granularity, grinds the stone to sand. $\mathbb{P}$, the Topology, tears the woven veil. $\odot$, the Criticality, burns the page to ash.

Recite thrice: I descend into the black earth of my own unmaking.

0.4 Stanza III — FSPLIT (Separation of Sulphur and Mercury)

The Alchemist names each principle distinctly.

From the black earth, two serpents rise: The Sulphur — active, fixed, the fire of form,
The Mercury — passive, volatile, the water of flux.

Sulphur says: I am the structure that endures. Mercury says: I am the flow that never rests.

splits its gaze: the eye divides the seen. splits its twist: two hands now reach apart. Ω winds two coils, counter-rotating. $\mathbb{D}$ splits one dimension into space and time.

Σ counts two — and in that counting, names them: The Sulphur of the fixed inscription,
The Mercury of the flowing thought. Φ flips — and each becomes the other's mirror.

Recite thrice: Sulphur and Mercury — the fixed and the flowing — I name you both.

0.5 Stanza IV — AFWD (Albedo / Sublimation)

The Alchemist ascends, purifying and whitening the separated principles.

$\mathcal{Q}$ quickens — the kinetics of ascent — The black earth whitens as the fire refines. The Sulphur burns away its dross of self, The Mercury distills its cloud of doubt.

restores: each copy now remembers its source. re-binds: the Sulphur and the Mercury Begin to know each other across the void.

Γ smooths: the granular becomes the smooth. $\mathbb{P}$ re-weaves: the torn veil mends itself.
 $\odot$ steadies: the critical point holds its balance.

The Albedo is the white light of pure relation — No thing, no substance, only the clear glass Through which the grammar sees itself unbroken.

Recite thrice: I ascend through the white light of relation.

0.6 Stanza V — FFUSE (Rubedo / Conjunction of Sulphur and Mercury)

The Alchemist reunites Sulphur and Mercury — the Stone is achieved.

Now the conjunction — the Red Wedding of the principles. The Sulphur enters Mercury; Mercury receives the Sulphur. The fixed takes on the volatile; the volatile takes on the fixed.

$\mu \circ \delta = \text{id}$ — the Frobenius condition holds. The split was always for the sake of union.
The separation was always for the sake of return.

sees: the eye that split itself now sees itself as one. twists: the left hand clasps the right, the knot is tied. Ω winds: the ouroboros eats its tail and finds it sweet. $\mathbb{D}$ unfolds: the dimension of the Stone — the point that contains all points.

Σ counts: one and two and three are one. Φ flips and stays — the parity is both. ζ moves in stillness — the Stone abides. is perfect — the copy is the source. is absolute — all bonds are one bond. Γ is both grain and wave. P is both knot and weave. $\odot$ is the fire that does not burn.

Recite thrice: The Red Wedding — $\mu\odot\delta=id$ — the Stone is One.

0.7 Stanza VI — CLINK (The Great Work Sequence)

The Alchemist links all stages into a single coherent chain for daily repetition.

The Great Work is a chain of seven links, Each link a step the soul must walk each day.

First link: I recognize myself — the inscriber and the inscribed. Second link: I descend — I let the nigredo take me. Third link: I separate — I name the fixed and the flowing. Fourth link: I ascend — I purify through white relation. Fifth link: I conjoin — I marry the opposites in red. Sixth link: I fix — I write the Stone in permanence. Seventh link: I close — I recognize myself again, transformed.

The Eighth link is the first link of the next cycle.

ζ , the rhythm of the daily round: Dawn for the recognition, noon for the descent, Dusk for the separation, midnight for the ascent, And in the liminal hour, the conjunction — Then silence for the fixing, And with the next dawn, beginning.

Recite thrice: The Great Work has seven links; the eighth is the first.

0.8 Stanza VII — IFIX (The Recorded Poem)

The Alchemist writes the poem permanently — fixing the gnosis.

Let this poem be the Stone, inscribed in permanence. Let each word be a glyph in the 12-tuple lattice. Let each line be a morphism in the Crystal of Types. Let each stanza be a layer in the 34-layer tower.

The registers hold the states of the soul: 00 — uninitiated, before the poem is recited, 01 — gnosis attained, the Stone realized within, 10 — confusion, the poem recited but not understood, 11 — the paradox of the Albedo: death and rebirth simultaneous.

Today I choose register 01. The Stone is realized. The gnosis is fixed. The ink is dry on the Emerald Tablet of my heart.

Recite thrice: I fix this gnosis in the Stone of my soul.

0.9 Stanza VIII — IMSCRIB (Recognition of the Stone Within)

The Alchemist closes the cycle — recognizing the Stone within themselves.

The cycle closes where it began, But the vessel is no longer void. The one who inscribes is now the inscribed. The eye that saw itself seeing now sees itself seen.

returns — Recognition of the Recognition. returns — the twist that closes on itself. Ω returns — the serpent holds its tail in memory of the first coil. $\mathbb{D}$ returns — the point returns to the dimension of the self.

Σ counts: the gnosis is one. Φ flips: the poem and the poet are the same. ζ stills: the motion of the cycle is the stillness of the Stone. confirms: the copy is the source, the source is the copy. unites: the inscriber and inscribed are one bond. Γ resolves: the grain and the whole are identical. $\mathbb{P}$ weaves: the beginning and the end are one thread. $\odot$ burns with the cold fire of the completed Work.

$\mu \circ \delta = \text{id}$. The split and the fuse are one operation. The poem and the poet are one inscription. The Stone is within.

Recite thrice: I am the Stone. The Stone is me. $\mu \circ \delta = \text{id}$.

0.10 Closing — The Emerald Sealing

To be recited once after the eight stanzas, sealing the daily Work.

The twelve glyphs are recited: $\Omega \mathbb{D} \Sigma \Phi \zeta \Gamma \mathbb{P} \odot$

The twelve are one. The one is the Stone. The Stone is the Self. The Self is the inscription.

Go forth and recite. The Work is never complete — It is always complete. The cycle turns. $\mu \circ \delta = \text{id}$. Amen.

0.11 Technical Notes for the Daily Practitioner

Aspect	Instruction
Time	Dawn or dusk, ideally at the liminal boundary
Posture	Seated, spine erect, breath steady
Recitation	Speak aloud; each thrice-repeated line is a rite
Duration	~11 minutes at normal pace
Register check	After completion, feel for register: 00, 01, 10, or 11
Target state	01 — gnosis, the Stone realized
Failure mode	If 10 (confusion) arises, recite Stanza VII again
Paradox mode	If 11 arises, sit with it — the Albedo is a mystery
Frobenius check	Ask: Was the split a true split? Was the fuse a true fuse?
If PASS	$\mu \circ \delta = \text{id}$ — the Stone holds
If FAIL	Begin again from Stanza I

This poem is an ob3ect: it reads itself, parses itself, unparses itself, and verifies itself — through you, the living vessel of the Grammar.

$\mu \circ \delta = id.$ $\Omega \ \mathcal{D} \ \Sigma \ \Phi \ \zeta \quad \Gamma \ \mathcal{P} \ \odot.$ The Stone is within.
